DRAW UP AN ELEVATOR PITCH FOR AN IDEAL UNIVERSITY FRESH GRADUATE

Bachelor Study Programme
with a focus on business

Hello, my name is A.B. , and I'm a recent graduate from the Faculty of Economics at the Technical University of Liberec, the Czech Republic, where I focused on business studies. I've developed a solid understanding of key business concepts and deepened my analytical and problem-solving skills through real-world projects and internships. During my studies I focused on analysing data related to consumer behaviour, modern market trends and strategies. I can say I am adaptable, eager to learn, and ready to hit the ground. I'm also creative as I participated in some school projects. Thank you for considering me for this opportunity.

My name is X.Y, I passed my maturita exam at a grammar school, now I am a fresh graduate from the Technical University of Liberec, the Faculty of Economics. I would say that i'm strongly reliable, and you can count on me in every tough situation, because i'll be there. Im a hard worker and I won't let you be in a trouble. I'm learning fast and i'm not scared of challenges. I have no problem to manage talking to people and also coworking with them in a team but from the beginning a could be a little shy, but when I get in a track, i'll manage almost anything.

My name is ZZ, a graduate student of the /UNIVERSITY NAME). My field of study was international trade. I mainly fill my free time with sports. Did you know that even sports can teach you new qualities and develop the ones you already have?

One of my greatest strengths that I gain thanks to tennis, which I have been playing for 15 years, is coordinating people. I can say you can not be a good coach without being able to lead people. I am very happy for this feature because it can be used applied in different environments. Not just in sports but also in my future job.

What I enjoy most of all is passing on experiences.

Steve Jobs once said, "The only way to do great work is to love what you do." I strongly agree with that statement. I have been so lucky to have the best part-time job in a bookstore while studying at the university. Since childhood, I have loved reading and exploring the book worlds. Now I can recommend my suggestions to customers and look behind the curtain of the bookshop. My biggest strengths are my communication skills, friendliness, and being responsible. That all showed in the workplace. I got along very well with my coworkers, and thanks to them, I was looking forward to every shift. I enjoyed helping customers to choose the right book for themselves or their loved ones. That job gave me many important skills I can use in my future work, such as dealing with demanding customers and managing their inquiries, complaints and problems efficiently and calmly. I could use my attention to detail while I helped with inventory, restocking shelves, handling book orders or refunds.

This summer at my internship in the office, I realised that I like working in the administrative field. I want to advance my career closer to the specialisation I studied and find another job I will be passionate about.

Hello, I'm AA, a 23-year-old student who's found a way to turn his passions into a source of income. While I'm still a student, I've been successfully handling finances and securing grants for non-profit organizations. I love being creative and use my slightly disorganized side, but that doesn't go well with accounting. Therefore, I also focus on organizing events.

One of my proudest achievements was organizing a children's day event, which drew in a crowd of 1500 people in just ten hours, and I even managed to get it featured in radio and television.

Beyond my studies, I'm a devoted volunteer, a nature enthusiast, novice traveler, and a bookaholic.

I have my true passion for lies in project management, whether it's organizing events or any other kind of project. I excel at bringing people together and ensuring things run smoothly. This is not just a hobby for me; it's a path I want to follow as my future career.
